Freshmen And Transfers Will Hear Rushing Rules

Pan-Hellenic Delegates Will Discuss Regulations At Second Mass Meeting

On Monday, October 4, at 7 P. M. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, the Pan Hellenic Council will hold a second mass meeting for freshmen and transfers to explain further the rules and schedule for rushing and to answer any questions that the rushees may have.

Sorority rushing will begin on Wednesday of next week, when sorority women will visit freshmen and transfers in their rooms and day students in the former dining room of Jefferson Hall. Rushing in the dormitories will continue in the afternoon and evening of October 6 and 7. After dormitory rushing, there will be no rushing and no association until Monday, October 11, when rushing begins in the houses and is by invitation only. Girls whose last names begin with the letters A to M will be invited to the houses for 15 minute periods on Monday, and those whose names are from M to Z will be invited on Tuesday, October 12.

There will be no rushing on Wednesday, October 13. On Thursday and Friday, there will be visiting by invitation at the houses for 20-minute periods. There will be no rushing on Saturday. On Sunday, rushees will visit the houses for half-hour periods from 2-6 P. M., and on Monday, October 18, sororities will hold final parties from 7-10 P. M.

Bids will be issued on Tuesday, October 19, Silence Day, and must be returned to Phi Beta Kappa Hall by 12 noon. Rushing will end on Wednesday, when new pledges will go to their respective houses at 1 P. M.

If a freshman or transfer cannot accept an invitation to a sorority party, she may notify the sorority by telephoning or by putting a note in that sorority's box in Barrett Hall, and another time will be arranged for her.

Until the closed rushing period begins, there will be no association of freshmen and transfers with sorority women, with the exception of WSCGA sponsors; and after the rushing period begins on October 6, there will be no association outside of set rushing hours.

The Pan Hellenic Council held its first mass meeting on Friday, September 24, when Miss Marguerite Wynne-Roberts, assistant dean of women, spoke to the new students about sororities, and Alice Baxley, president of the council, outlined the rushing program.

Dance Will Follow Rally

"Following the Friday night pep rally, on October 1, a sophomore class dance will be held in the small cafeteria," J. P. Morgan, class president, announced at a sophomore meeting tonight.

The dance is open only to members of the class. Sophomore women have been granted late permissions to attend the event, at which there will be entertainment and refreshments.

"We urge all class members to be there, with or without dates," Morgan added.

Jaycees To Provide Bus

Limited transportation facilities for women students attending the Williamsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce Air Show at College Airport on Sunday, October 3, at 2:00 P. M., have been made available.

A bus loaned by Colonial Virginia Tours, Inc., and having a capacity of approximately 30 students, will make one run to the Air Show, leaving from the Fine Arts building at 1:45 P. M. sharp. A return trip is to be made following the show.

Joan Felix Posts Flat Hat Try-outs

Try-outs for positions on the news, sports, features, morgue, circulation and business staffs of The FLAT HAT will be held tonight in the Dodge Room from 7:30-8:30.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Michael Adelstein, instructor in English, who will discuss the advantages of college journalism. The editors of the FLAT HAT will describe the work done by each of the staffs and explain the methods by which freshmen and upperclassmen may become members of the staff. Refreshments will be served.

"All freshmen and upperclassmen who are interested in any phase of newspaper work are urged to attend this meeting," declared Joan Felix, editor-in-chief. "Experience on high school newspapers is helpful but certainly not essential."

Women Will Take WSCGA Exams

WSCGA exams will be held on Tuesday, October 5, at 7 P. M. in Washington 100, 200 and 300, it was announced by WSCGA President Dorothea (Dotsy) Theidick at the first student government meeting held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall last night.

All women students, with the exception of the members of the three WSCGA councils will take the examination. A fine of 25 cents will be levied for the first failure, with an additional 25 cents charged for each successive failure.

Dotsy announced that the senior nominating committee will name two candidates for each of the freshman offices. Additional nominees will be named from the floor for the offices of freshman representative to the Executive Council and freshman representative to the Judicial Committee at the November WSCGA meeting.

Tuga Wilson, president of Mortar Board, explained the purpose and functions of the organization and introduced its members. Carol Achenbach described Mortar Board's tutoring service.

Morgan Will Call Tribunal To Order Tomorrow Evening

William and Mary's 255th session of the Freshman Tribunal court will be called to order by Judge J. P. Morgan, sophomore class president, tomorrow night at 7 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Freshmen, wearing duc caps and old clothes, are required to attend and will be seated downstairs. Upperclassmen may view the court proceedings from the balcony.

"The tribunal this year will take on a more serious note than it has in the past," Prosecutor Bob Hendrick declared. "Its purpose is to establish and continue to raise the spirit and high standards of the college."

The jury will consist of sophomore class officers and faculty members. Anne Waring, class secretary-treasurer, will serve as clerk of the court.

Separate tribunal courts existed for the men and women students in 1920. In 1932, the two courts were merged into the tribunal of today.

Dean Reveals Enrollment

According to the latest registration figures announced by J. W. Lambert, Dean of Students, there will be about 611 women and 1343 men enrolled in the fall semester as contrasted with last year's record of 635 women and 1307 men.

Barter Players Rescue Dull Script — Pseudo-Satire Falls Into Flimsy Farce

By Peter Boynton

Appearing before an enthusiastic audience Saturday night at Phi Beta Kappa Hall, the Barter Theatre of Virginia presented Pursuit of Happiness, a romantic farce by co-authors Lawrence and Armina Langner.

Aware of the flimsy nature of their vehicle, the players nevertheless performed with gusto and filled a number of rather dull passages in the script with a humor that owed little to the authors.

Billed as a gay, modern satire, The Pursuit, we believe, fell somewhat short of the requirements for satire. Satire is briefly defined as "trenchant wit, irony, or sarcasm, used for the purpose of exposing and discrediting vice and folly." All three attributes were conspicuously absent. Leaning heavily on the boy-wants-girl-girl-wants-boy-and-how-to-get-them-together-in-three-acts formula with accent definitely on sex and coyly centered around the commendable if dated custom of 'bundling', the play, for our money at least, smacked strongly of the farcial. And as a farce it was enjoyable enough, although we objected to the gentle and oh-so-ineffectual little 'messages' that cropped up from time to time. We like our sex (on the stage, at any rate) more or less unadulterated. We thought the curtain line of the third act almost worth the price of admission in itself.

Recognizing the nature and appeal of the play, the actors employed a technique reminiscent of the art of pantomime. Among the women there was much rolling of eyes, flouncing, and head play. Among the men a certain exaggeration of gesture resulted in a series of caricatures: the swash-buckling southern colonel, the bigoted puritan deacon, the romantic young foreigner, the suppressed husband who likes a nip on the sly, etc. All of which, in the long run, proved quite convincing and probably the only technique that could have carried the burden of a hackneyed plot and a colonial setting.

Ray Boyle, selected for the Barter Theatre by Miss Helen Hayes and winner of the 1947 Barter award, deserves praise for his portrayal of the youthful Hessian deserter who 'bundles' charmingly

Dr. Pomfret Will Address Annual Fall Convocation

Dean Of The College To Present New Professors, Department Heads

Classes will be dismissed at 10:40 A. M. on Friday, October 1, to attend the 256th annual Autumn Convocation which marks the formal opening of the 1948-49 session, in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium.

The exercises will open with a full academic procession from the College Yard east of the Wren Building to Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Participating will be the marshals, choir, colors and color guard, faculty, Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, and his official party, and the senior class who will wear their caps and gowns for the first time. The assembly for the procession will be at 10:45 A. M.

Dr. Pomfret will address the Convocation which will be presided over by Dr. Donald W. Davis, senior member of the faculty. In his address entitled "A profile of the College of William and Mary," Dr. Pomfret will illustrate the difference between colleges and universities and show how the morale of the students is an important factor in determining the standards of a college. Preceding the address, the Rev. Francis H. Craig-hill of Bruton Parish church, will deliver the invocation.

Charles J. Duke, bursar of the college, will introduce the officers of the administration. New members of the faculty and heads of departments will be presented by Dr. Sharvy G. Umbeck, dean of Seniors may obtain caps and gowns Wednesday and Thursday, September 29 and 30, from 2 to 4 P. M. on the second floor of Marshall-Wythe.

Dr. Foltin Will Speak In Chapel Tomorrow

Tomorrow night at 6:30 P. M. in the Chapel of the Wren Building Dr. Edgar M. Foltin, professor of psychology and jurisprudence, will speak on the subject, A Penny for Flowers, at the first regular chapel service this semester.

Dr. Foltin returned to the college last year after serving as chief of the legal division of the United States forces in Austria for a year. His work consisted mostly of supervising the legal division of the United States forces in Austria for a year. the college. The William and Mary Choir, under the direction of Carl A. Fehr, will sing To Thee We Sing, arranged by Tkach, and the traditional "William and Mary Hymn."

Dr. A. Pelzer Wagener, chairman of the committee on special events, stated that the senior class is expected to participate in these exercises, and caps and gowns must be worn. "Seniors will form their line on the center walk, with the head just west of the Botetourt Statue, in order of senior marshals, senior women, senior men, and class officers," he added.

Alumni Association Calls Meeting On Homecoming

There will be a Homecoming parade meeting on Monday, October 4, at 7 P. M. in Washington 100.

"It is important that every organization send a representative who will be prepared to say whether or not his organization will have a float or other entry in the parade," stated Charles P. McCurdy, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association. Other essential information pertaining to the parade will be given at the meeting.

Pep Rally Set For Friday

A pep rally will be held on Friday, October 1, on college corner at 7:30 P. M.

Speakers at the first pre-game pep rally of the year will be football Co-captains Lou Hoitsma and Red Caughron, Coach R. N. (Rube) McCray, Dr. George J. Ryan, professor of ancient languages, and Charles J. Duke, bursar. Freshman will assemble in Phi Beta Kappa Hall prior to the rally at 7 P. M. A bon fire and snake dance will follow the rally.

Sorority Rushing

Now that orientation and registration have been completed, the women students will concern themselves with that annual ordeal known as sorority rushing.

In Pan Hellenic Council meetings last year, sorority women who favored early rushing formed an overwhelming majority. We are conscious, therefore, that in advocating the postponement of rushing until after the release of midsemester grades, we are very much in the minority. We ask the sorority women to consider the coming rushing season in the light of last year's and to come to some definite conclusions.

As we understand it, the principal reason for early rushing is "to get it all over with" before term papers and midsemester exams start to monopolize the time of the sorority women. We concede that preparations for rush parties do consume a great deal of time and interfere with one's studies, but rushing takes up a lot of time regardless of when it is held. The better part of three weeks is devoted exclusively to rushing. Whether that three weeks comes in October or December seems immaterial.

The advantages of late rushing both to the sororities and to the rushees are numerous. The average rushee knows little and understands less about the fraternity system. Many new students are not sure they wish to become part of that system. An even greater percentage, although they intend to join a sorority, find it difficult to decide, on the basis of a few rush parties held shortly after their arrival on a strange campus, with what group they will be most congenial.

The sororities are in the same position. Very few people are capable of forming an accurate picture of a rushee's personality when the rushee is suddenly thrust into the midst of a large group of women whom she does not know. The shy girl who finds it difficult to make a good and lasting first impression is at a definite disadvantage in early rushing, and shy girls are to be found in large numbers in an entering freshman class. There will be some, on the other hand, who make a good first impression but who will prove to be incongenial with a group after they are pledged.

Both the presentation and the acceptance of a sorority bid are important steps which should not be taken without careful consideration. We maintain that it is impossible to consider either question carefully on the basis of a few rather strained and artificial meetings at the beginning of the school year.

Free association during the first few months of school would give sorority women and new students an opportunity to become acquainted without the stress and strain involved in a formal rushing season. Those who witnessed late rushing last year will remember that few sorority women took advantage of this period to "dirty rush."

We agree that mistakes will be made both by the sororities and by the rushees in any rushing season. We also agree that it is inevitable that some of the new students will be disappointed when bids come out, whenever rushing is held. We do believe, however, that mistakes and disappointments will be cut to a minimum if late rushing is adopted. We urge sorority women to discuss the pros and cons of the question with the freshmen when the Pan Hellenic Council meets to propose next year's rushing schedule.

Flat Hat Policies

The editors and staff of the Flat Hat must assume the responsibility both for the publication of this paper and for the controversies which arise as a result of its publication. Realizing this double responsibility, we pledge to uphold the following policies:

We shall print all news pertinent to the College of William and Mary without bias, prejudice or literary coloration.

Complete accuracy in every detail shall be our goal.

Through our feature articles and columns, we shall endeavor to offer topics of interest to all our readers.

We shall endeavor to make our editorial page the voice of student opinion and an intelligent guide for that opinion. In accordance with this policy, we shall not hesitate to state our views on any action of the students, faculty or administration which we feel is detrimental to the College of William and Mary. We shall, in stating our opinions, follow the standards of good taste and constructive, rather than destructive, criticism. All editorials will bear the initials of the author. We shall print all letters to the editor, provided they are not slanderous or unsigned. Names, however, will be withheld upon request.

Columnists Elliott and Scott Warn Frosh — Orientation Lectures Omit Vital Facts

By Ken Scott and Jim Elliott

There are those of you, we know, who think that a column such as this should be a substitute for Li'l Abner, for those too lazy to get up and swipe their neighbor's Sunday comics. But we have no intention of carrying on for Al Capp—we want it understood from the start that we are a couple of schmoees, not schmoos. While there may be a physical resemblance at present, a month of the cafeteria will end that.

No, we operate on a different principle. Those intrepid journalists, Scott and Elliott, Elliott and Scott... (what a hell of a partnership this is!)... The authors of this column believe in a more intellectual approach—profound reflections on the international scene, analyses of the political campaign, the latest discoveries in atomic research, and advance information on the forthcoming study, Sexual Behaviour in the Human Female. In fact, we are of such a scholarly nature that we even wrote to Prof. Kinsey, offering to do a thorough investigation here at W&M. Unfortunately, he checked with the Administration, who assured him there was no such thing as sex at William and Mary.

Flat Hat Omissions

First of all, we would like to take up something we felt was omitted from the last issue of the Flat Hat (and we don't mean the Chesterfield ad.) That issue was devoted to welcoming and not welcoming the freshmen. Completely beside the point; most of them are here to stay regardless of what we do.

By now, you freshmen have been tested and examined to the satisfaction of first floor Marshall Wythe. Tentatively, they have decided you are in the correct local institution. So we shall make the best of a bad situation, hide our feelings, and offer advice on the practical side of college life, on rules, regulations, and such.

You've been lectured at this past week on everything from how to use a library to the history of the honor council. You have been "orientated," at least to the point where you know the cafeteria from the laundry. There is a slight difference, although they both make hash out of things. Yes, you've been given a rough idea of what the rules are.

Dangers Await Frosh

But did they tell you what is far more important—how to evade them? Were you warned of the dangers that await you? Of the nightwatchmen and their high-powered flashlights? Aha, we thought not! Let us bring you several cases, gained from a usually reliable source*.

Case R-574. Robert M. Caught red-handed with a pair of unregistered roller skates. The Committee of Deans was disposed to leniency, and as a result merely amputated both legs.

Case L-131. Susan D. Discovered reading some mail on a Monday night—obviously a violation of the spirit of the WSCGA rules. The rules are very strict about Monday nights; while women are normally permitted to breathe at prescribed intervals, even this is not allowed on Monday nights. Susan was campused for a week and blindfolded to prevent any recurrence.

Case B-962. Wilma T. Arrived at the dorm one Saturday night at 12:03. When called before the Judicial Committee to explain, she got rather angry and became Red in the face. Appalled at finding a Communist in their midst, they decided the case was too big for them, and turned it over to the Thomas Committee. She has been accused of stealing the process for making synthetic rubber out of garbage, developed at Trinkle Hall during the war under the name of Hungarian goulash.

Now you can see how easy it is to make one fatal slip. To get out of such situations and beat the rules, we have collected a fine assortment of alibis and stratagems, actually tested at great personal risk. Bound, sealed copies may be purchased direct from the authors at $1 per copy. Those who remember our inspired opus of last year, How to Win on Charm Letters, will need no further urging.

*The janitor in Dean Hocutt's office.

Herb Bateman Lists College Eccentricities — Gripes Describe One Vicious Circle

By Herb Bateman

Before the new student, be he freshman or transfer, can adjust himself, he must know the eccentricities of W&M and all its distinctive characteristics. All colleges have certain claims to fame in the way of peculiarities. As an example, there is the University of Virginia. It is world-famed for its "Virginia Gentleman," a rare breed which is found there in a half-civilized state, and which is readily identified by black knit ties and brown bottles, these ornaments comprising the most distinctive features of that species' costume.

Perhaps the most-needed information is a description of our student body as a whole. Essentially we are hypocrites, with our many traditions constantly on our lips and lethargy in our souls. There is, however, an excuse for this in that we have so many traditions we are still in front of other schools when we fail to live up to even a good part of them.

Gripe!

To be a real, integral part of this institution you must gripe. It isn't always necessary to get the facts before hand; just cut loose and complain and the more bitter the better. In the past the gripes have all boiled down to one general outcry which is heard on all sides. The student body laments the inactivity and failures of the student government. As justification for their failures student government officers point to the lack of student interest and support. Then, of course, the students and their officers damn the administration for its failure to cooperate with them. The vicious circle is completed when the faculty and administration point their long lean fingers of accusation at the student body's lack of responsibility. Later, when we all become re-established, some of you will for the first time hear this thunderous chorus of two thousand voices, singing several different tunes at once. When you hear these tunes one at a time they all ring true. It makes one wish that these choristers could get together more often.

One of the peculiar customs firmly established here is that of paying more than value. This needs no elaboration if you have eaten in the college cafeteria (I have figured that if I eat one meal a day my food book may last thirty days). Another pertinent example is furnished by the new fraternity lodges. There is an old legal maxim which seems to fit the lodges as regards to price, "No matter how small, no matter how humble, every man's home is his palace," or to put it another way, no matter how small, no matter how humble, every frat's lodge must cost as much as a palace.

Ability Of Administration

Not to be overlooked in our resume of W&M's eccentricities is the ability of the administration to lose things. This is the only place in the world where a hay stack can be lost in a needle. Can you imagine losing a wooden platform used for dances in the Sunken Gardens, or canoes once found on Lake Matoaka, or horses once lodged in the college's own stables? Which reminds me the stable must have been lost also. It is so bad, we even worry for fear we will find our dormitory missing when we come back from weekend trips.

Some may think after reading this, (or will any one read this far?), that this is a hell of a school to attend, and they are right. It is a hell of a fine place to spend four years if you decide to be a real part of the school and want to obtain an education and enjoy yourself in the process. If you get the most from William and Mary while you are a student, you must do your best to see that the students who come after you will have as pleasant a career as you, if not more so. Make this your goal and William and Mary becomes a better school for you than you could find anywhere.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

It looks as if the workers will never finish digging holes on the campus and then refilling them, but such work seems much more purposeful at the present time than it has before. In short, William and Mary is becoming more of a "students' college" than it ever has been. Those responsible are to be congratulated.

The completion of the lodge system and the renovation of Trinkle Hall will fill two of the most pressing of the student needs—the need for gathering places for the men and the need for a pleasant atmosphere in which to eat well-prepared food.

If early meals are any indication the cafeteria will be a much safer place for unwary young students this year. While this particular point has long been one for which a remedy was needed, the new cafeteria system looks as if it was worth waiting for. Now perhaps the ex-GI's can forget about army mess halls.

Close inspection shows that a good job was done on the fraternity lodges. The workmanship for the most part appears excellent, and the college's part of the furnishing well taken care of. It would have been helpful if construction had been completed a little sooner, but I guess we can't have everything.

Such improvements, along with the advancements being made in the advancement being made in William and Mary an increasingly popular school long after the post-war boom of students has died. And the increased popularity and higher academic level of the college will increase the value of the W&M degree to the individual.

Students should never forget, however, that the school is only as good as the individuals who go to make it up and that the degree is only as good as the name and standards of the school.

* * * *

To the Editor:

As a William and Mary upper-classman, I should like to express a little disgust at the treatment of some of the members of the freshman class under the guise of tradition. Certain members of the student body are carrying the idea to the extreme and making a nuisance of themselves.

The Flat Hat should take a stand condemning such practices, which tend to be degrading not only to the freshmen, but also to the entire school.

Restoration Offers Passes To Students, Faculty Members For Present Session

The privilege of visiting, without charge, the six exhibition buildings of Colonial Williamsburg is accorded students and faculty members of the College of William and Mary to enable a firsthand study of the architecture, art, furnishings, decoration and social customs of the 18th century.

The special passes for the academic year 1948-49 are available upon request at the Goodwin Building, administrative headquarters of Colonial Williamsburg, the organization that is maintaining and carrying forward the restoration of central portions of the city.

Kenneth Chorley, President of Colonial Williamsburg, first extended the pass privilege in February, 1946, and since that time hundreds of students of the college have taken advantage of the opportunity to study firsthand the unique restoration project.

The passes cover repeated admissions to the Royal Governor's Palace, the reconstructed Capitol Building, the Public Gaol, Raleigh Tavern, George Wythe House, and the Ludwell-Paradise House. At each of the exhibition buildings, women in colorful dress escort students and other visitors and explain the history and furnishings of the restored or reconstructed structures.

In 1918, women were admitted to the College of William and Mary for the first time by act of the General Assembly.

Brooks Sets Deadline For Graduate Exams

Deadline for the Graduate Record Examination to be given Monday, October 25, and Tuesday, October 26, has been set for noon, October 7, by Richard B. Brooks, director of the counseling office.

The examination is administered once every three months on a nationwide basis, since many graduate schools of the United States and Canada require the results as one of the credentials for admission. The fee is ten dollars, payable at the beginning of the first testing session.

All students interested should apply directly to Brooks in Washington 213 from 8:30 A. M. to noon, and from 1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Four Restaurants Open In Vicinity; Colonial to Install Bowling Alley

Prominent among the summer changes in Williamsburg is the number of new restaurants that have opened.

The old Snack Shack on Richmond Road has been transformed into the Ivy House under the management of Dave Rutledge, former William and Mary student of the class of '38. Rutledge majored in economics and business and since his graduation has managed country clubs and restaurants. The Ivy House is decorated entirely in green with English ivy prints on the walls of the alcove.

The shelves in back feature growing ivy. Specialties include steak, tossed salad, and french fried onion rings, made from an old Mobile, Ala., recipe.

The Pickwick, which opened the last of July, specializes in Koscher meats and does its own baking. Bertha M. Hudgins, manager, stated, "We are a typical delicatessen located at 421 Prince George Street. While summer school was in session a large amount of our business consisted of college students who got snacks to take out."

Also under new management is the Colonial Restaurant just off Richmond Road. It is now operated by George Callas and Danny Campas of Indian Grill fame. This is the largest restaurant in Williamsburg, having a seating capacity of 150. The walls are decorated by large photographs of Bruton Parish Church, the Wren Building, the Capitol, and the Palace.

Now under construction downstairs are eight bowling alleys and a grill where sandwiches and hamburgers will be sold. The alleys will also be used by the college for classes and tournaments. "We have the largest and most modern kitchen in Tidewater Virginia," stated Callas. Soon college students will be able to purchase meal tickets to be used at the restaurant.

Under the management of Leon Johnson, The Harvey House, a branch of chain restaurants, has opened on Duke of Gloucester Street. The attractive window display of sodas and sundaes is an example of the specialties. The Harvey House offers double-horse shoe counters and booths. There is also a private dining room for larger parties.

Using yellow and blue as its color scheme, The Wilmar, under the management of E. B. Kirkpatrick, Jr., and J. L. De Innocentes, is a new coffee shop, located on Jamestown Road behind Barrett Hall. It is noted for its low prices and as a convenience for the students because it is opened from 7 A. M. to 1 A. M.

Jane Segnitz To Head Historical Film Library

Jane Segnitz, a graduate of William and Mary in 1947, has been appointed film librarian for Colonial Williamsburg, effective October 1.

During her college life, Jane served as Managing Editor of the Flat Hat and as an assistant in the history department. In 1947 she accepted the position of assistant to the film librarian of Colonial Williamsburg. In her new capacity she will have direct charge of films and slides maintained by the organization that is carrying forward the historic restoration of Williamsburg.

Testing Service Will Offer Law Exam On Four Saturdays During Next Year

The Law School Admission Test, required of candidates by a number of law schools throughout the country, will be offered four times in the coming year, according to the Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test in cooperation with twenty leading law schools.

Candidates may take the LSAT on Saturday, November 13, February 19, May 7, and August 6. Administrations are held at numerous local centers in all parts of the country. Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding their entrance, the ETS advises candidates for admission to next year's classes to take either the November or February test where possible. Each candidate should inquire of his prospective law school whether or not he is expected to offer it.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from the Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J.

Indians Will Encounter Deacons Here Saturday

SMOKE SIGNALS BY BILL GREER

One of the things that makes football the great institution it is was displayed in the North Carolina-Texas game last week at Chapel Hill when Coach Blain Cherry of the Longhorns called his entire team to the middle of the field at the close of the game to apologize for the action of one of his players.

During the course of the spirited contest, some bitterness arose between the linemen and a Texas player flattened a North Carolina tackle a la Joe Louis. Of course the player was ejected from the game to the boos of the gathered throng and the visitors penalized half the distance of the goal.

But when the game was over and the North Carolinians had gained full revenge for the humiliating defeat suffered in the Lone Star State last year, Coach Cherry called his entire team to the center of the football field and made his apology to the winners more effective.

The game was one of the hardest fought contests in years at Keenan Stadium, even though the score does not indicate it. The keen desire to win, and to win fairly, is sometimes carried to the point of personal conflict, but the fact that the teams can walk away friends at the end of the game is an encouraging aspect of our way of life and has come to be one of the greatest features of American tradition.

The game Saturday, however, caused consternation in Williamsburg.

The game clearly indicated that the Chapel Hill Express, derailed in the early part of the 1947 season, is now ready to roll. Indeed, the Tarheels may well be among the top three of the country this year.

And, judging from what Boston College did to Wake Forest last Friday night (26-9), it looks as if that team may well be in the class with the Chapel Hill Hotshots.

If the Braves are to have success with their schedule, they must make good showings against these two, as well as Arkansas. A clean sweep of the slate, now improbable, would boost the Braves to the prominence toward which they have been steadily advancing since "King Carl" Voyles took over with the grid Restoration of the Colonial City in 1939.

And, incidentally, this year's crop of freshmen look like some of those who composed the "Fabulous Freshmen" of 1939 which listed such names as Marvin Bass, Buster Ramsey and Harvey Johnson.

Crystal Ball Department: The Indians, in good shape, seem ready for Wake Forest and should come through by a couple of touchdowns after a hard fight. . . Virginia looks too good for VPI, although not to the extent of 41-7 like last year. . . An improved George Washington eleven appears ready to take VMI. . . The Tarheels of North Carolina may have to work to hold the score down while beating Georgia. . . Cornell looks ready to add to Navy's woes. . . Duke over Tennessee at home.

Jack Cloud, great William and Mary fullback, gained over a half mile rushing last season and was thrown for losses which amounted to less than 20 yards. His longest gain was on a pass interception in the Wake Forest game, however.

W&M Eleven Seeks Second Loop Decision

Coach Rube McCray's William and Mary Indians will get their strongest test of the early season Saturday when the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest invade Cary Field for an important Southern Conference at 2:30 P. M.

The game will mark the first home appearance of the defending Southern Conference champions who will be out to continue their clean slate against Wake Forest teams. In past years, the Indians have won four and lost none to the Deacons.

The Wake Forest team which comes to Williamsburg this week will be an entirely different one from the ponderous machine which McCray's keyed-up Indians beat into submission last year.

Coach D. C. (Peahead) Walker, wearer of colorful attire and chief mastermind of the Baptists, has installed the T formation in place of the single wing which had been used by his teams. So the emphasis will be on speed and sharp offensive play rather than the bulldozing tactics which have been used in other years by teams from the North Carolina school.

The Deacons expect to be stronger offensively this year while admitting the possibility of a weaker defense in 1948. Early games played by that team seem to bear out that contention. Gone are some of the best of the gridiron talent which performed for Walker last year. Among the missing is Nick Ognovich, one of the most talented blocking backs of the conference in recent years and three time winner of the Jacobs Trophy for being the outstanding blocker in the loop.

Gone too are the top four guards from 1947, All-Southern Ed Royston, Bob Leonetti, Richard (Bud) Wedel and Jim Camp, Co-captain at center, Jeffrey Brogdon at defensive fullback, Carl Haggard at halfback, Sidney Martin at tackle and Leon Dombroski at guard.

Key man of the Deacon attack this year is Tom Fetzer, a fine ball handler and passer from Reidsville who will play behind the center. The backfield includes such standouts as Bill Gregus, freshman of the year last fall, Harry Dowda at right half and Senior Bud Lail at the fullback post.

George Pryor, fullback on whom Walker had counted heavily, was declared ineligible shortly after the beginning of practices in September.

But some of the beefy line which played for Wake Forest last year is back, and the forward wall averages 207 this fall.

While the Indians will be making every effort to score another impressive victory over the Deacons, McCray has lost some key men, too. Last year, William and Mary played one of its best games in downing Wake Forest, 21-0 soon after the Deacons had defeated North Carolina and Carolina had won over W&M.

Both first string guards from the 1947 W&M team, Knox Ramsey and Bill Saffko, have left the Reservation, as have the two co-captains, Ralph Sazio and Bob Steckroth. From the backfield, the Indians lost ace passer Stan Magdziak and blocking back Tom Mikula as well as such reserves as Herb Poplinger and Jack Hoey.

The Indian line has assumed a different appearance, with George Hughes moving from center to guard where he is teamed with Jim McDowell, and Moe Kish and Vito Ragazzo have moved in to fill the left side of the line.

Frank O'Pella has been shifted from center and is performing quite well at that position. But he is out for two weeks with an injury and may be replaced by Billy Harrison.

The rest of the Braves backfield shapes up about the same as. See W&M TO PLAY, Page 6

Tribe Cagers Open Practice

By Hugh DeSampier

Candidates for the Tribe basketball team began working out immediately upon arrival last week. Coach Barney Wilson stated that this action was taken in order to have the team ready for their rugged schedule beginning December 1, and in the hopes that the team would "get hot" earlier in the season this year.

Coach Wilson, when questioned about the schedule, moaned, "We'll be lucky to have enough boys to finish the season—it will be rough going." He was particularly depressed over the loss of co-captain Charlie Teach, and Johnny Green, of last year's squad. "They will be very hard to replace and we are going to miss them." Both Teach and Green were outstanding hoopers, sparking the team often to big rallies.

The outlook was not all black, though, as Wilson expressed the opinion that the men who sparked the varsity late last season were predominantly freshmen, and could be expected to be better schooled in the fundamentals this year. Their teamwork began to come around toward the end of last season, and can naturally be expected to click earlier this year.

Due to the fact that it is so early in the school year, the full squad has not yet reported, and things are a bit unsettled. Among the first to report for practice were "Fuzz" MacMillan, Charlie Sokol, Bob Holley, Chet Giermak, Sherman Robinson and Steve Siegfert. Thus far no captain has been chosen for this season—this selection has been reserved for a later date.

A new face has been added to the coaching staff in the person of Tip Downing. He will act as graduate assistant to Coach Barney. See BARNEY WILSON, Page 7

Indians Stop Davidson, 14-6; Reserves See Much Action

Coach Rube McCray of the William and Mary grid machine denied the visiting scouts a glimpse at the powerful offensive attack his Indians are alleged to own as the Big Green team was satisfied with a rather unimpressive 14-6 victory over Davidson's Wildcats Saturday night at Charlotte, N. C.

The first team functioned as a unit for only a small part of the game, and it was obvious that McCray was not attempting to run up the score on the Wildcats.

William and Mary's offensive power became evident in the first period and in the early minutes of the second quarter when Tommy Korczowski passed for two touchdowns and the reserves took over.

In the first period, the Indians took over on a fumble on the Davidson 32 and in a moment Korczowski rifled a touchdown pass to Co-Captain Lou Hoitsma for the first W&M touchdown of the season. Buddy Lex kicked the extra point.

For the second Tribe score, the Braves drove deep into Wildcat territory and exchanged fumbles, recovering on the Davidson nine in the opening minutes of the second quarter. Korczowski then hit wingback Henry Blanc for the touchdown and Lex again booted the PAT.

Then the game seasawed up and down the field until the very last play of the contest when Auburn Lambeth connected with Buddy Cheek for the entire Davidson point total. Tommy Thompson, giant Indian center, broke through to ruin Pete Brown's try for the extra point.

Davidson had threatened on other occasions, but had made the mistake of trying to score through the William and Mary line. They met with no success at all, being thrown back three downs and falling with a pass on one occasion.

Statistically, Davidson was ahead in most departments. The 'Cats picked up 18 first downs to three for William and Mary. They outgained the Braves 117-56 on the ground and 153-123 in the air. William and Mary completed 10 out of 34 passes while the opposition was able to cash in on five out of 18 tosses. W&M lost 80 yards by penalties and Davidson lost 30.

McCray played three men in most positions, and at least two men in every spot. Bob Finn played much of the game at center in the absence of the injured Sonny Davis, Tommy Thompson's usual understudy.

Fans who see the W&M-Wake Forest game Saturday probably will see the full fury of the Indian attack unleashed for the first time this year, since a large part of the practice and game work has been given over to experimentation and concentration on reserve power.

Virginia colleges in general had a rough week end.

Al Thomas Requests Runners To Report

Al Thomas, track and cross-country coach, has asked that men interested in participating on the cross-country team report to him in the gymnasium or on the freshman side of the stadium as soon as possible. Candidates may also report to Francis McFall, assistant coach.

The season is rapidly approaching, and William and Mary will sponsor its second teams in the sport since it was resumed last year following the wartime lapse.

Tommy Thompson Stars At Pivot Post For Fourth Season On Indian Squad

By Earle M. Copp

Mainstay in William and Mary's rugged forward line is Tommy Thompson, veteran of three college campaigns who holds down the center position for Coach R. N. McCray's football phenomena.

Tommy began his career at the Reservation in 1944 but took a brief recess in the U. S. Army. West Point Military Academy very nearly snatched him from this campus in 1946, but he returned on the morning of the first W&M game of the season, jumped into his regalia, and played a tremendous game against Fort McClellan.

A triple-threat man is one who can pass, run, and kick, but Thompson is another kind of triple threat for the season of 1948. He is not only playing the forward wall, but is calling both offensive and defensive signals.

All-Southern center last year on both Associated Press and United Press teams, Tommy weighs 220 and stands 6 feet, 1 inch. His play for last season's conference champions also netted him a first place berth on the All-State team and an honorable mention on the Associated Press All-America selection.

Pro football scouts have already spotted this red-headed terror from Woodbridge, N. J. He has appeared on the draft lists of both the Washington Redskins and the All-America Conference champs, the Cleveland Browns.

Coach McCray has said that Thompson is one of the finest centers to ever appear in the Braves' line-up, and many another coach and scout will back up this statement. A senior here, he played more than three-quarters of every game on the 1947 season.

He plays a very rugged type of football, and his play assignments usually include a block of a backer-up rather than a lineman. On defense he is seldom out of the play and is continually dogging the opponent's offensive maneuvers by being in on many a tackle. Last year he intercepted two passes for 12 yards. He was also a standout in downfield blocking.

Tommy is one of the chief reasons for Jack Cloud's success. When these two get together for a line plunge there is an inevitable giving away in the opposition's defense and needed yardage is gained.

Thompson, who is 21, married the former Miss Barbara Daugherty last summer. Mrs. Thompson is also a senior at William and Mary.

Indian Frosh Eleven Will Play Maryland

The William and Mary Freshman football team will tangle with the Frosh of the University of Maryland Friday night at 8 at Newport News. The game will be played at Saunders Stadium, the Newport News High School field.

The game will mark the first time a William and Mary freshman team has functioned as such since 1943. Between that time and last July 1, freshmen were eligible to participate on varsity teams.

Women's Athletic Association Holds Picnic For New Women Students

The Women's Athletic Association held a picnic Thursday, September 23 at Matoaka Park for all new incoming students. President Jimmy Murphy and head of the physical education department, Dr. Caroline Sinclair welcomed the girls and introduced the teachers within the department and also the managers of the different sports.

A booklet compiled by the H2E Club with the assistance of the Association and the department were given to all the women in order that they might have an introduction to the athletic activities of the women of the college. It contains such information as the names of the different clubs and interest groups in the field of women's sports, the point system and awards in connection with the intramural program and a tentative calendar for 1948-49.

Coaches of the Southern Conference picked R. N. (Rube) McCray of William and Mary as the "Coach of the Year" at the conclusion of the 1947 gridiron campaign.

Thompson Picked 'Lineman of Week'

Lineman of the week in the state in the first full week end of play of the 1948 season was Tommy Thompson, big, rugged William and Mary center who dominated individual play in the Davidson game Saturday night in Charlotte, N. C.

The 220-pound Brave pivot man was picked because he was the outstanding man, both offensively and defensively, on the field all evening.

Thompson was the only William and Mary regular to play more than a small part of the game. He was in for almost the entire contest and was a key factor in the W&M victory.

Back of the week was Bob Thomasson, passer for VMI, who led his team to a three-touchdown victory over Catawba.

Barney Wilson Opens Court Practice For Approaching 1948-49 Season

Wilson, Downing, a graduate of West Kentucky State Teachers College, was an all-star basketball player while playing for that college. He was on the All-Madison Square Garden team in 1942, and also made third team All-America the same year. Downing comes to the reservation from Princeton High School, Ky., where he served as basketball coach. He will assist in the early workouts especially, while Coach Wilson is tied up with football.

There will be no junior varsity this year, according to Coach Wilson, with the freshman team taking the place of the "JV's." Howard Smith will coach the freshman team. It is expected that there will be several outstanding prospects on the squad, but it is still too early to make any statements in connection with them.

The 1948-1949 basketball schedule is as follows: December 1, Langley Field, home; December 4, Quantico Marines, home; December 7, Norfolk Naval Air Station, home; December 11, Milligan College, home; December 14, V.M.I., away; December 16, Norfolk Naval Base, home; December 18, Wake Forest College, away; December 20, Rider College, away; December 21, Villanova, away; December 22, Albright College, away; December 23, Seton Hall College, away.

had to be satisfied with only a 14-14 tie with the lightly regarded Miami University team of Ohio.

Some brilliant backfield play by such aces as Barney Gill of Norfolk and Joe McCary were responsible for the performance of the Cavalier in their better moments.

Virginia Tech, new coach and all, lost a stunning 13-0 decision to George Washington at Blacksburg. A rugged freshman from Washington, D. C., Andy Davis, led the Colonials to what amounted to a rout of the favored Gobblers.

Among the disappointed were Bob McNeish, new VPI coach, and 11,000 spectators who turned out to see the season's opener.

Also in the category of an upset was the 10-7 victory which Furman imposed on Washington and Lee at Lexington. The Purple Hurricane came back in the closing minutes of the game to snatch the victory after trailing, 7-3, most of the way.

But to the surprise of nobody, Lou Gambino-less Maryland romped over the Spiders of the University of Richmond, 19-0. There was little doubt as to the class of the winners as they completely dominated play before 12,000 fans at City Stadium in Richmond.

VMI had little trouble with smaller Catawba, taking a 28-6 win.

Elsewhere in the conference, North Carolina stunned the University of Texas, 34-7, Duke and North Carolina State battled to a scoreless deadlock, Clemson buried Presbyterian, 53-0 and Boston College swamped Wake Forest, 26-9 in a game played Friday night.

Vic Raschi, Former W&M Student Paces New York Yankee Hill Staff

By Tom Joynes

Last winter, a short, inconspicuous Associated Press dispatch, with the dateline "Williamsburg," told of a William and Mary student named Vic Raschi re-joining the New York Yankees for the 1948 season. Few people noticed the story, and fewer had ever heard of Vic Raschi.

But before the season was a month old there were few people who hadn't heard of a tall, silent right-hander who was pitching the New York Yankees to a seemingly comfortable lead in the American League. Raschi dropped his first start but copped the next nine consecutive victories.

To date, Vic Raschi (who was a member of the William and Mary baseball teams of the early '40's and lately has continued his studies here) has won 19 and lost only seven games.

His wins have been over some of the best twirlers in professional baseball, including the fireball king himself, Bob Feller.

Most impressive of all the Raschi jobs was the one he did in the All-Star game. In his three innings on the hill for the American Leaguers, Vic scattered two hits, walked only one and personally batted in the winning runs. He came to the plate with the bases loaded, a National hurler having just walked the previous batter intentionally for a crack at Raschi. Vic pounded one against the boards for a triple, cleaning the bags.

At the plate, Raschi has proven himself a dangerous man with a stick in his hand. His batting average is nothing worth framing, but he's batted in enough runs to win several of the ball games he's credited with.

Yankee manager Buckey Harris was offered a couple of rookies and quite a hunk of change for Raschi before the big New York native had posted the victories that have made him the talk of the league. But the chief of the World Champions couldn't see any advantage in dropping big Vic. And now he says, "What a fool I'd have been to make that trade."

Raschi moved to the majors

Vic Raschi

half way through the 1947 campaign from the Pacific Coast Class AAA league. His record then was quite good, though he did have some awful moments.

Vic went to school here last September-February, then joined the Yanks in spring training. The 30-year-old father of one child probably is one of the lowest-paid pitchers in the big league, but his 1949 salary is sure to be increased to a healthy sum.

Vic is a member of the Sigma Rho fraternity, local at William and Mary.

Raschi was scheduled to pitch this afternoon against the Philadelphia Athletics in quest of his 20th victory of the season. Manager Bucky Harris is relying on him as the key man on the Yankee mound staff in an effort to catch the Cleveland Indians.

Raschi has had remarkable success against the Athletics since his first appearance in the American League. He has won something like eight games and dropped none to the Mackmen.

The present phase of the schedule seems to favor the Yanks in the pennant search, but they had only five games to play, including today's.

Smith Restates Entry Deadlines

Intramural Director Howard Smith has restated the entry deadline for the two fall sports, touch football and tennis. The final date net entries will be accepted is October 2, while touchball teams may enter as late as October 6.

He also pointed out that the volleyball competition would be run concurrently with the basketball program this winter.

At present, about half the spots are filled on the tennis chart, with 128 spots available in all. A new rule was instituted this year that fraternities could enter only eight men. That move was brought about because entire fraternity rosters were listed and the purpose of the program was being defeated.

Smith stated that as many fraternity men as desired could play, but only eight would be the representatives.

Last year's football and tennis championships were both closely contested, with the net tournament being carried over into the spring session because of bad weather a part of the fall.

The equipment room in the gymnasium is now open for students to check out such things as tennis racquets, footballs, handball equipment and the like.

Vets May Reinstate Insurance Policies

Although the easy reinstatement is over for most veterans, those whose G. I. insurance has lapsed less than three months still may reinstate without a physical examination, the Veterans Administration has announced.

Provided their health is as good as when their insurance lapsed, veterans can reinstate their lapsed policies by paying two monthly premiums and submitting a simple statement on their health, VA explained.

Prior to July 31 veterans could reinstate G. I. insurance by this simple method regardless of how long their policies had lapsed. Now, however, all veterans whose insurance has lapsed more than three months must take a physical examination before their term or permanent plans of insurance can be reinstated.

Testing Service Posts Schedule For Exams Of Pre-Med Students

The Medical College Admission Test (formerly known as the Professional Aptitude Test) required of candidates by a number of leading medical colleges throughout the country, will be given twice in the coming year, according to the Educational Testing Service.

Candidates may take the test on Saturday, October 30, 1948, or on Monday, February 7, 1949, at administrations to be held at more than 200 local centers in all parts of the country. Since many medical colleges begin selecting their freshman classes in the fall preceding their entrance, the ETS says that candidates for admission to next year's classes will probably be advised to take the October test. Students interested should inquire of their prospective medical colleges whether they will be expected to take the test and, if so, on which date.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from premedical advisers or direct from the Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Complete applications must reach the ETS office by October 16 and January 24, respectively, for the October 30 and February 7 administrations.

English Exchange Student Compares Colleges — Exeter Scholar Admires Honor System

H. Trevor Colbourn, Exeter's third exchange student to William and Mary since the end of the war, arrived in New York two weeks ago aboard an American freighter. "And that first impression of the city's skyline was really wonderful. I've always wanted to come over here."

At William and Mary Colbourn plans to do graduate work in history, toward a master's degree. Although his first impression of the campus was "a bit flat," the arrival of his roommate several days later brightened up his first opinion considerably, and he now finds William and Mary "very interesting."

"The first thing that struck me over here was the automobile situation. There are so many, and they are so much bigger and cheaper than ours," he commented. "And at first I was inclined to scoff at the idea of an Honor System, but here it really seems to be working."

Academic Set-Up Differs

Comparing life in Exeter to that of William and Mary, Colbourn noted a vast difference in the academic set-up. Exeter undergrads attend fewer classes than students do here and graduate students attend none. All work is the student's own responsibility and exams are given at the end of every other term. Undergraduates are examined only at the end of their three years' work.

Athletics at Exeter are entirely student handled, the funds for which are obtained from gild subscriptions. This is a fee levied on all students and which finances not only the college athletics but also all the other campus clubs with the exception of political organizations. "So your football scholarships seem very strange to me," he stated, "but I'm eager to see my first game."

Freshman orientation abroad parallels that at home rather closely. At Exeter, this project is left entirely to the various residence halls with each group of "freshers" required to present a concert. "Since this comes off just about the time the acorns are ripe, you can imagine the results." When called before the seniors, freshmen unable to answer certain questions are treated to a cold bath and an equally cold, wet bed.

Commercials Bad

Several weeks of listening to American radio programs have convinced him that our commercials are bad and "really get one down." Every Englishman owning a radio set pays an annual sum to the government for national up-keep of the radio station and three programs are sponsored daily without advertising.

Bridge is very popular at Exeter and is a favorite pastime with Colbourn. He is also highly in favor of American social fraternities and sororities.

Although he has been living in Poole, England, Colbourn was born and reared in Australia, a fact which may account for a noticeable lack of British accent.

OPA Rent Office Lists Rooms, Rents For Students, Faculty Living In Town

With a record fall enrollment of about 1950 students, including 175 married veterans, there has been a scarcity of suitable housing accommodations for students, veterans' families, and new faculty members.

An estimated 200 members of the college have had to seek off-campus rooms and apartments in Williamsburg, according to J. W. Lambert, Dean of Students.

"Sleeping rooms in rooming houses and apartments which have been rented in the past are registered in the OPA area Rent Office, room 22, Old Post Office Building, and remain under control. Students who wish to determine the legal maximum rent for quarters they occupy may do so by calling at the area office," stated D. C. Renick, Rent Examiner.

Students or faculty members who desire additional information about provisions of the rent act governing leases and evictions may obtain it from the Rent Office.

Fehr Continues Auditions

Auditions for the various choral organizations will be continued this week from 1 to 4 P. M., Monday through Friday, according to Carl A. Fehr, director.

"If anyone has a conflict with this schedule he may make other arrangements with me at the Music Building," declared Fehr.

BSU Will Hold Reception After Wake Forest Game

On Saturday, October 2, after the Wake Forest game, the Baptist Student Union will hold an open house in the Student Center of the Baptist Church for all Baptist students.

Dr. A. F. Ward, Jr., pastor of the Baptist Church, will be the speaker at the BSU banquet on Sunday, October 3, at 5:30 at the Student Center which is located opposite Monroe Hall on Richmond Road. The Student Center is open to Baptist students at all times.

Royalist Awards Prizes To Writers Of Prose, Poetry

A criticism of The Love Sonnets of Edna St. Vincent Millay by Clarice Garrison and a group of three sonnets by Ann Barlow are the first prize winners of prose and poetry in the last edition of the Royalist.

The second prize winner in prose was To Maudie by Emma Jean Ballance and the second prize in poetry was won by Peter Boynton for his Poem.

The Royalist, the quarterly literary publication, awarded the last scholarship to Peter Boynton for winning the most prizes last year. The first and second prizes are ten and five dollars, respectively.

"Try-outs for staff membership will not be held till the second semester but all students are urged to submit material, either in prose or verse," stated Dick Bethards, editor. New additions to the staff are Patricia Stringham, Glenn Garrison and Dorothy Butts.

Bethards also announced that the first staff meeting will be held Friday, October 1, at 4 P. M. in the Royalist office. The deadline for the opening edition is October 29.

Thirteen William And Mary Veterans Attend ROTC Camp At Fort Bragg

Thirteen veterans represented William and Mary's ROTC unit at Ft. Bragg's Artillery Summer Camp during a six-week period early this summer.

The group, which was the first such in the history of the college, participated in a combined artillery and airborne program along with groups from 25 other schools and colleges, as well as West Point's class of 1950.

The cadets of the ROTC used the 82 Airborne Division's personnel and equipment for training. Each student had three opportunities to apply the lessons in gunnery taught at William and Mary by directing the cannon fire of the Division's batteries.

The outstanding phase of the airborne or parachute training was a voluntary jump from a dummy plane located on a forty-foot tower. Another memorable period was spent watching the development of a tactical problem involving the dropping of a complete parachute battalion from the Air Forces latest type transports. This was followed by a landing operation of gliders from which jeeps and artillery pieces were seen to emerge.

Theoretically, the paratroopers met an obstacle in their "attack" on a hill, and to demonstrate coordination of the armed services a fighter squadron located hundreds of miles from the North Carolina "battlefield" was called on for a close-support mission. The F-51's actually flew from a base in Ohio to demonstrate dive-bombing, strafing and rocketing of an enemy strongpoint. Other demonstrations involved the use of helicopters, new methods of communication, firing of the Army's largest guns, and operation of radar and meteorological stations.

All of William and Mary's contingent successfully completed the summer course which leads to a Reserve commission. Those attending the camp included Edward Brown, Thomas Burt, Austin Flagg, Otis Garrison, Robert Gleason, Winfred Huffman, Joseph Lonas, Bruce McClure, James Putman, Edgar Roberts, Richard Slaughter, Arthur B. Thompson and Dudley Woods.

Stewart Calls Rehearsal For Members Of Band

The first rehearsal of the college band will be held tomorrow at 6:30 P. M. in the Music Building.

"All students playing a band instrument who missed the organizational meeting tonight are urged to attend the Wednesday rehearsal," Alan C. Stewart, assistant professor of fine arts and band leader, declared. Instruments will be available for those students who play but do not have instruments.

How high can you go

IN THE U. S. AIR FORCE?

The ceiling's unlimited! Men who enter the Air Force as Aviation Cadets become 2nd Lieutenants within a year. From there on, they can climb as far and as fast as their ability and the needs of the service permit. Under the Air Force expansion program, there is plenty of room for advancement. 2nd Lieutenants automatically become 1st Lieutenants after three years of service; are eligible to become Captains, Majors and Lieutenant Colonels after 7, 14 and 21 years respectively. More rapid promotions are frequent. Never before has the opportunity for making the Air Force a permanent career been so favorable, especially to the men in Aviation Cadet Pilot Training.

Here are the requirements:

Appointment to the Aviation Cadets is open to single men, between 20 and 26½ years old, who have completed two years of college (or can pass an equivalent examination). Upon graduation, Cadets receive their wings and commission, a $250 uniform allowance, and three-year active duty assignment with pay up to $336 a month. Freshmen To Receive 'Who's Who' Booklet

Who's Who in 1952, similar to Princeton's Freshman Herald, will be published in about three weeks for the benefit of the freshman class.

The purpose of this booklet will be to acquaint each incoming student with the members of his class, to establish class unity, and to promote close association throughout college life. It will contain the name of the student, home address, college address, nickname, name of the high school from which he was graduated, and a record of high school activities.

By the suggestion of Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, J. W. Lambert, Dean of Students, compiled the information which will be edited by Charles Post McCurdy, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association. It will be financed by the Friends of the College.

Presidents of the fraternities and house managers of the fraternity lodges will meet with Charles J. Duke, bursar, to discuss maintenance of the lodges tomorrow in 206 Marshall-Wythe at 7:30 P. M.

Colonial Williamsburg Offers Program Of Lectures And Tours For Students

A varied offering of movies, illustrated lectures and candlelight tours are presented regularly by Colonial Williamsburg as part of its educational program providing a special event nightly for visitors, students and townspeople of Williamsburg.

Supplementing the exhibition buildings and other features of the restored city, these events are of special interest to the students of the College of William and Mary as a means of grasping a deeper understanding of the history and significance of Williamsburg in the 18th century.

Most of the programs are held at the new temporary Reception Center just across from Williamsburg Lodge. The large auditorium and exhibit lobby houses the official information desk and ticket office of Colonial Williamsburg. A short movie and color-slide program

"briefing" visitors on the history and restoration of the city is presented there continuously through each day.

Three times weekly, the color movie Eighteenth Century Life in Williamsburg, Virginia is shown at the Reception Center. It is usually held on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings at 8:15 P. M. and is open to all interested persons without charge. The film was made in Williamsburg with townspeople in costume as actors depicting a typical day in the city two centuries ago.

Theatre To Conclude Initial Casting Trials

Try-outs for the William and Mary Theatre's first performance, The Great Campaign, will be concluded after tomorrow's trials at 3 P. M. in Wren Kitchen.

Two copies of the play are now available for reading at the main desk in the library. "The Great Campaign", a play with a large cast including dancers and singers, contains a satiric note throughout the plot and should prove to be most enjoyable for all those participating in it," declared Althea Hunt, director of the William and Mary Theatre.
